MACGREGOR

Designed to perform with the sea

Drydocking a vessel is a critical and expensive intervention for any owner or manager. In today's challenging marine market place we at MacGregor understand that you want to keep your operating costs to a minimum. We care. That is why we are offering a MacGregor qualified expert at a special low-cost fixed price daily rate available at all major drydocking locations.

Vessel down-time for maintenance is a costly but necessary fact of life and any reduction in idle time should be taken seriously. At MacGregor we have identified that when a vessel is out of action the maintenance team need all the help they can get to complete the planned works with maximum efficiency.

Our customers employ their own crew and often shipyard labour who have a wide set of skills but who cannot be experts on all the equipment on board and this can affect the quality and success of the works carried out.

MacGregor can provide a qualified expert who will work alongside your own people and shipyard crew to supervise the planned works.
